WELCOME FROM OUR ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Reg

We did it! From The Till Trilogy and its accompanying Reflection Series of special events produced in collaboration with over 25 cultural partners and our Catalyst Series workshop of Max and Willy's Last Laugh directed by Tony Award nominee Sheryl Kaller to Mona Mansour's critically acclaimed Unseen, which the Post called "electric" (I agree!), my Mosaic directorial debut Bars and Measures featuring live pre-show performances curated with the DC Jazz Festival, and more—what a wonderful whirlwind of an inaugural season this has been! I am overflowing with gratitude to our artists, staff, Board, donors, and audience members who have made this year.

It is a special gift to close the season with Donja R. Love's one in two. Led by my dear friend, Helen Hayes Award winner Raymond O. Caldwell, this production is a dynamic showcase of craft, imagination, and heart. Each actor is prepared to play multiple parts, a thrilling leap of theater-making. A robust collection of engagement events deepens our connection to the play's themes of resilience and survival, produced with over 10 local and national partners, including a rare display of the National AIDS Memorial Quilt. May this uniquely-made Mosaic production honor those that we've lost to this disease, be a balm to those experiencing loss now, and be a light to all of us about the need for community and hope.

We began this season with a reading of our Andrew W. Mellon Playwright-in-Residence Psalmayene 24's new play Monumental Travesties at the Capitol Hill branch of the DC Public Library in August 2022. Psalm only had Act 1 to share then, but we have now come full circle in this thought-provoking comedy's journey to the stage and will kick off the 2023-2024 Season with its world premiere production! I hope that you will join us next season for that play and all of the exciting work that we are dreaming up. We can't wait to see you next year at Mosaic!

The AIDS Memorial Quilt—Paying Tribute

Through the generosity of Steven Clay & Mike Smith and the National AIDS Memorial, Mosaic is proud to display six panels from the National AIDS Memorial Quilt during our production of one in two. Conceived of in 1985, the AIDS Memorial Quilt now includes 50,000 panels and is recognized as the largest ongoing community folk art project in the world.

one in two was inspired by playwright Donja R. Love's own HIV diagnosis, and like his powerful play, the AIDS Memorial Quilt is dedicated to healing, hope, remembrance, and ending stigma. As Donja embraced his craft to share his deeply personal story, people have used the Quilt to tell their stories or honor the stories of others—its panels pay tribute to 110,000 individuals.

The panels on display for one in two commemorate mothers and daughters like Belinda and Monica, activists like Eric Jordan and Dr. Mark Colomb, who led the establishment of National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day, cultural icons like Alvin Ailey, and brave individuals like 14-year-old Michael Felton, the first child in the state of Mississippi to speak publicly about his positive status. Some names are more familiar than others, but all of their stories ring with significance.

PLAYWRIGHT & DIRECTOR

Donja R. Love (Playwright; he/they) is Black, Queer, living with HIV, and thriving. He's graced the cover of POZ magazine's POZ 100 issue, A&U magazine, and Positively Aware. He's one of Plus Magazine's "Most Amazing People Living with HIV." He's the recipient of POZ's Best in Performing Arts Award, the Horton Foote Playwriting Award, the Terrence McNally Award, the Antonyo's inaugural Langston Hughes Award, the Helen Merrill Award, the Laurents/Hatcher Foundation Award, and the Princess Grace Playwriting Award. Other honors include the Philadelphia Adult Grand Slam Poetry Championship. He's the co-founder of The Each-Other Project, a digital media platform that celebrates and fosters community through art and activism for Black Queer and Trans communities, through which he's produced numerous short films and digital series. He's also the creator of Write It Out!, a playwright's program and prize for people living with HIV. Plays include soft (world premiere; MCC Theater), one in two (world premiere; The New Group), Fireflies (world premiere; Atlantic Theater Company), Sugar in Our Wounds (world premiere; Manhattan Theatre Club), and What Will Happen to All That Beauty? He's a graduate of the Lila Acheson Wallace American Playwrights Program at The Juilliard School.

Raymond O. Caldwell (Director; he/him) was born in Wiesbaden, Germany and raised all over the world. Raymond is an award-winning director, writer, and producer who has been leading Washington, DC's Theater Alliance as Producing Artistic Director since 2018. Regionally he has directed for Signature Theatre, Round House Theatre, Imagination Stage, Mosaic Theater Company, The Kennedy Center, National Players/Olney Theatre Center, Solas Nua, CulturalDC, African Continuum Theatre Company, and the Hegira. Prior to leading Theater Alliance, he was a faculty member and resident director in Howard University's Department of Theatre Arts for six years, and spent six seasons as the Community Engagement Partnership Manager at Arena Stage. He is committed to using theater as a tool to transform communities, and has partnered and worked with artists, activists, nonprofits, and NGOs throughout the world. In October 2022—in partnership with the US Department of State and Contact Base, a cultural NGO based in West Bengal—he developed the play A GLOBAL I.D.E.A. with 23 artists and activists from Bangladesh, Nepal, India, and the US that explored what Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Accessibility mean on the global stage. He has done similar work throughout the US, India, Ukraine, and Croatia. He earned an MFA in Acting and New Play Development from The Ohio State University and a BFA in Acting from the University of Florida. raymondocaldwell.com.

We stand with the LGBTQ+ community in health, harmony, and happiness

CELEBRATING
AND ALL THAT IS YOU

Kaiser Permanente is honored to sponsor the Mosaic Theater's play One in Two. We believe that living authentically can help you be your healthiest—in mind, body, and spirit. As a proud supporter of the LGBTQ+ community, we remain committed to total health for all.
